Weston at the Museum

Heritage Station, the Umatilla County Historical Society Museum located in Pendleton, has chosen Weston as its featured community for 2016. A display is being created in cooperation with Weston Library, and will include many of our library's historic photos, captions, and objects from our archives. The Weston display will be exhibited for the remaining months of 2016.

Featured elements of Weston history will be the Weston Brickyard, Weston Leader newspaper and editor Clark Wood, author Nard Jones, Eastern Oregon State Normal School, and Pioneer Picnic.

Heritage Station is located at 108 SW Frazier Avenue in Pendleton. Check their website www.heritagestationmuseum.org for details, including open hours and other information.

The Power of Planks

Umatilla County Special Library District recently received grant funding to provide all 12 District libraries with Keva Planks for library use. Keva Planks are perfectly cut, identical maple construction blocks that stack with great stability, allowing a unique building experience for kids and adults. Everyone can enjoy building at his or her own skill level.

We will be using our new planks for Pre-school Storytime, Summer Reading and other library events in the coming months. Check them out at Kevaplanks.com.
